

SYLLABUS AND GRADING INFORMATION

SYLLABUS INFORMATION

Humanities Syllabi may be found under Department Information in the Humanities web site.

URL for Humanities Web Site: <http://www.midlandstech.edu/humanities/>

This is probably the most important aspect of classroom management and is your direct responsibility. You MUST distribute a syllabus to each student during the first week of class (and must send a copy to Lisa Cheeks in the Humanities Department office during that week). Departmental Master syllabi for each course provide some guidelines for what a syllabus must include, but you must add your own contact information, grading methods, and calendar of assignments. Master Syllabi can be downloaded from the departmental website at:

http://www.midlandstech.com/humanities/Humanities\_Dept\_Syllabi.htm

NOTE: a screen asking for a password may appear. Just click "cancel." This could possibly just be at the bottom of your screen, minimized.

Master Syllabi can also be downloaded from D2L. (See end of this document for Instructions)

Aside from this master syllabus, many elements are up to you: grading and the requirements on which grading will be based, assignments (within the guidelines of the course objectives), course schedule, etc.

If you do not know what course content is absolutely essential contact either your coordinator or the department chair.

In general, the best policy is to anticipate problems and spell out your expectations in the syllabus. This includes matters like tardiness, making-up missed tests and dated assignments, etc.

You cannot grade students on behavior, so do not circumvent the attendance policy by penalizing excessive absences by a letter grade.

Requirements for papers and projects, and their due dates, should be clearly stated.

YOU MUST HAVE A COURSE SCHEDULE.

Once a syllabus has been given to students, the college expects an instructor to adhere to it or give the students written notice of change. Please remember that your syllabus is a legal contract, and that you must notify students in writing of changes to the syllabus.

To determine absences:

- 14-week term: 4 absences
- 10- or 12-week term: 3 absences
- 7- or 5-week term: 2 absences

GRADING

Grading is entirely a faculty prerogative and responsibility.

Final grades are alphabetical with no pluses or minuses.

DO NOT give a grade of Incomplete "I" without the express permission of the Department Chair.

If a student withdraws or "over cuts" before midterm, give that student a "W" and show last date of attendance on the grade roll.

If a student withdraws after midterm, award a "W" or a "WF" depending on whether or not the student was passing on the last date of attendance.

Finally, keep your grading policy as simple as possible, and make sure that the students understand it. Be sure to state your grading percentages on your syllabus.

GETTING YOUR SYLLABI FROM HUMANITIES DEPARTMENT COURSE IN D2L

Login to D2L, scroll to the bottom and click on Student tab:

The screenshot shows the D2L (FutureLearn) homepage for Midlands Technical College. The browser address bar displays <https://elearn.midlandstech.edu/d2l/lp/homepage/home.d2l>. The page features a central welcome widget with the text "Welcome to the Midlands Technical College e-learning website" and a background image of a clock tower. To the left, there are several user-specific widgets: "Change Password" with links for Undergraduate and Continuing Education; "My Settings" showing a profile picture and name "Elena Martinez-Vidal" with links for Preferences, Email Address, Change Password, Profile, and Locker; and "Events" showing "No events" for "Today". To the right, there are "My Admin Tools" (Organization Related, Organization Files, Shared Files), "Updates" (no current updates), and "Bookmarks" (no bookmarks). The "My Courses" section is highlighted with a red circle, and a red arrow points to the "Student" tab within this section. The "Student" tab is currently selected, and the "Master Semester" and "Department" (Academic Affairs) are visible below it.

Click Content:

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL <https://elearn.midlandstech.edu/d2l/lp/homepage/home>. The page title is "Humanities Departmental Course". The top navigation bar includes links for "Course Home", "Content", "Discussions", "Dropbox", "Assessments", "Grades", and "Groups". The "Content" link is circled in red with an arrow pointing to it. Below the navigation bar, the page is divided into three main sections: "Events", "News", and "Course Administration".

Events

- Today
No events
- Tomorrow
No events
- Upcoming
No events

Updates

- 38 New Dropbox Submissions
- 70 New Enrollments

Calendar

June 2011

News

News Item

Humanities

Visit Content for Syllabi and other articles

Course Administration

- Design
  - Course Design Accelerator
  - Instructional Design Wizard
  - Course Builder
  - Learning Activity Library
- General
  - Course Offering Information
- Administration
  - Groups
  - Tools
- Tools
  - Manage Dates
  - Import / Export / Copy Components
  - Intelligent Agents

Scroll down and you will find the latest syllabi:

Click open and save to your computer or flash drive.